Orientation of Buildings

Only 2 out of 8 directions produce auspicious, life-supporting results.

The notion that home and work environments influence our health is well known. Interestingly, the ancient science of Maharishi® Sthapatya Veda™ design has addressed the need for life-supporting environments for several thousand years. It is derived from the timeless wisdom of the Veda—knowledge in Sanskrit—source of the widely practised Transcendental Meditation® technique founded in the West by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi over 50 years ago.

Working with many experts Maharishi has revived Vedic Architecture in its purity and correctness to a practical, modern building science available to anyone planning a home or office: The Maharishi Sthapatya Veda Consultation Service (see below).

Vedic Architecture includes the modern green and sustainable ideals of non-toxic, natural building materials and renewable energy options, but goes far beyond that. Its aim is to enable people to live and work in buildings and communities that promote health, happiness and prosperity—in short, to create Good Fortune for the individual and society.

Vastu—correct orientation, placement and proportion

According to Vedic Architecture, many misfortunes and even diseases arise from lack of proper orientation of the structures in which people live and work, and from fundamental violations of Natural Law inherent in structural design.

Vastu—a Sanskrit word that means “holistic structure of Natural Law”—offers a detailed understanding of the relationship between the owner, the building, its location, and the immediate as well as distant environment—including the sun and planets in our solar system.

Vedic Architecture factors in the topography, shape, size and other characteristics of a building site to determine the best position for the building.

Each direction brings a particular influence and Vedic Architecture uses this knowledge to determine a structure’s proper orientation as well as the placement of its rooms and furnishings.

A Glowing Testimonial

“I have been in my home for one year now. The reality of living in a Fortune-Creating home is so much more than I had ever considered. It has so far exceeded my expectations that I can’t really find the right words to express it.

“From the moment I moved into my house, my good fortune increased. Not doubled, not quadrupled, but much greater than that. I have to adjust to the reality that my desires get fulfilled very quickly now.

“In many instances, I barely have identified the desire before it is fulfilled. The gap between having the desire and the fulfilment of the desire has shrunk to almost nothing. Things that used to be difficult to organize now organize themselves with virtually no effort on my part.

“During the first year in my house, there has been such abundance in my life that I haven’t had to decide between fulfilling one desire and fulfilling another desire. Nature has become so bountiful that I can move forward on all levels, leaving behind the smallness of either—or thinking.

“There is a precious feeling that develops between the Fortune-Creating house and the owner of the house. My experience is that my home is a totally safe, secure refuge, a sanctuary of purity and stillness and happiness.

“I feel that my house protects me, not only when I am in it, but even when I am away from it. When I am not at home, I carry my house in my heart, and somehow, I feel like my house has me in its heart. I feel nourished by my house, supported by my house, cared for by my house. Also, I find that doing things for my house brings happiness — simple household chores become fun and fulfilling activities because it is for my house.”—C.P., Iowa resident, USA
